The work of the Christian commission is one from which the soldiers may receive some benefit every day, whether sick or well.

The commission now reaches nearly every camp in the country with its work and will soon reach every ship in the navy.

It has distributed 25,000 hymn books, 40,000 good books of a kind calculated to interest and benefit young men, and thousands of pocket testaments to the army and navy.

There are people who think that these books will simply be torn up to light pipes with. Those who have this idea do not understand what kind of men go to make up our army and navy.

Those who are in the best position to know say that the books are thoughtfully read and carefully preserved.

It is not easy for a man to live a strictly temperate life in the army. It is exceedingly warm and dusty in the Southern camps and the men get very thirsty.

At Chickamauga a man some times has to stand in line for half an hour waiting for his chance at the pump.

Closed by is the regimental canteen or saloon with plenty of ice cold beer for a nickel a glass. It is served by a soldier dressed in a military uniform and has the sanction of the government.

The men thus get the impression that their officers believe it will do them good, or at least no harm; and so many a man learns to drink it who never drank before.

The commission now reaches this difficulty and now provides ice water in its tents. The effect of this on the canteen receipts can be noticed immediately.

The colonel of the Eighth Massachusetts challenged the commission to supply the canteen with distilled ice water, promising if they would do so to abolish the canteen.

The challenge was accepted and the canteen closed up. It costs about dollar per day to keep one ice water barrel running.

An important part of the labor of the Christian Commission worker is the visitation of the sick and wounded men in the hospitals. There are about 800 such at Camp Thomas.

It is not easy to be sick far away from home and friends in an army camp. The other day one of the commission workers went to visit a poor fellow who had been put out in a tent by himself on account of the nature of his disease.

He was the son of Christian parents but had fallen into a company in camp and was to be discharged in a few days. He cried bitterly when the worker incidentally mentioned his mother.

A few days ago while a song service was going in the gospel meeting (the canteen being closed several evenings) a sick man in the hospital near by sent word for them to sing "Jesus Savior Pilot Me," and died while they were singing the third verse.

A thousand sheets of paper and envelopes are furnished to the commission tents at Chickamauga every week. It is only a little thing, but it shows that the men like to avail themselves of the privileges the tents afford.

Colonel Chaffee, of the Second Missouri volunteers, says that nothing has so much contributed to the comfort, contentment and well-being of the men at Camp Thomas as the tents of the Christian commission.

A Christian commission tent and two secretaries have gone with the troops to the Philippines. Ten thousand good books were sent along also. General Merritt said: "I heartily approve of the object of this expedition;" and ordered his officers to do all they could to make the work easy.

The question is sometimes asked: "How do the soldiers regard the gospel meetings?" Dr. A. C. Dixon, who preached several weeks to the regulars here before Santiago before they left Tampa, says: "The meetings were as popular as if they were in church. I never preached to such responsive and appreciative audiences."

Dr. L. Moody says that he believes several thousand soldiers have already been converted. He is chairman of the evangelistic department of the commission and is appealing for funds to help carry on the work. His address is East Northfield, Mass.

A directory issued by the Ninth Street Baptist church of Cincinnati, O., and its sister churches, has been received by the Tribune. It is the church of which Rev. Warren G. Partridge, formerly of this city, is pastor. The book is profusely illustrated and gives a comprehensive idea of the great work the church is doing.
